

FOR MEN ONLY!

I do not care to enlist the interest of the casual reader, but I invite the earnest attention of men, men only and only such men as are afflicted with disease or weakness peculiar to their sex. Male maladies alone constitute my specialty. I treat nothing else. I began a special study of them soon after graduating from college, nearly a quarter of a century ago, and during all the years since then they have been my study and persistent practice. Am I not better prepared, then, to combat and conquer such ailments than the general practitioner, who looks the teachings of experience in specialty cases?

Varicose.

Under my treatment this insidious disease rapidly disappears. Pain ceases almost instantly. The pools of stagnant blood cease often result from sympathetic talents in the system, and physical and mental decline frequently follow impotency. In treating disease of any kind I always remove the effect as well as the cause.

Reflex Diseases.

Many ailments are reflex, originating from other diseases. For instance, sexual weakness sometimes comes from varicose or stricture. Innumerable blood and bone diseases often result from sympathetic talents in the system, and physical and mental decline frequently follow impotency. In treating disease of any kind I always remove the effect as well as the cause.

Correspondence.

One personal visit is always preferred, but if you cannot call at my office write me your symptoms fully. My home treatment for correspondents is always successful. I make no charge for private consultation, and give to each patient a legal contract in writing, backed by abundant capital, to hold for my promise. Physicians having stubborn cases are cordially invited to consult me. Address all letters to

WOMAN AND PHYSICAL CULTURE.

What Proper Exercise Will Do for Beauty of Face and Form.

Every one likes the wholesome, rosy-cheeked woman; she is invariably good-tempered and charming.

Some philosophical writer says there is no such thing as a red-cheeked criminal. He might have added that there is no such thing as a rosy-cheeked swine.

INDIVIDUALISM IN HANDWRITING.

European graphologists have just laid down two rules which will be of interest to all. It is found that the personal characteristics of individuals can be discovered through an examination of their handwriting. One law is that, as the good and bad qualities of a writer are revealed by the manner in which he forms his letters, so it is possible for a writer to acquire virtues and to lose vices by letters and words in a manner indicative of such desirable and undesirable character traits.

For example, a strong man crossing the small i's is said to indicate willfulness, and consequently it is asserted that any man who is a decided willful person will always need in future only one hat in this fashion. In like manner generosity is said to be indicated in any writing in which the small i's are left wide open, and consequently it is declared that the surest way to rid one's self of the spirit of avarice is to form one's small i's in this manner.

The second law is aimed directly at the style of handwriting which is taught in the schools of the Sacred Heart as well as in many schools both in England and in this country. This style was introduced some time ago by Canon, and one of its marked characteristics is an absence of the lack of curves.

According to M. L. Depoin, an expert graphologist, pupils who are taught in this way specially show in their writing tokens of intellectual constraint and vacillation. This style of handwriting, he says, tends to make people inconstant and also prevents them from giving, at any rate, the best impression which is possible. As stands, if I were making a book on the point, I would chalk up "Even money and take your pick," with a 5 per cent commission for holding the bet.

The betting so far has not been heavy. There is plenty of money behind each bid, but their partisans intend waiting until the last possible moment before staking their money. Some of the more conservative men in the field are holding out, but without being badly beaten and dazed I look to see him not only outlast Horne, but also win the championship. The first chance of victory is at the beginning of a fight. Terry is apt to be overzealous and to have a tendency of which a clever man may be guilty. He is not only more skillful as a boxer, the Gardner, but is also a far better ring general.

The beginning of the first four rounds of the fight is likely to be the great danger point for McGovern. If he can hold his own he will be in a position to attack him on his balance, that he was unable to stand him. The rules were not so strict as to allow a straight punch, but they were not so strict as to allow a straight kick, either.

McGovern is a boxer, and he is not only more skillful as a boxer, the Gardner, but is also a far better ring general.
